ROSCOE H. McKAY

A well known chap in Norway is Rosco H. McKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McKay, Whitman street. Born in Norway not quite twenty-one years ago, he has grown into the social and athletic life of the community, being a live wire in both activities and proudly displays a letter "N".

During his course at Norway High School, his punch was more conspicuous in field sports, especially in the clerical part. He has been a long suffering business manager for basket ball and an able assistant, gathering advertising for the Caduceus, a school magazine of importance. Outside work was not neglected during school activities and his finances were enlarged by employment at Stone's Pharmacy, where he made hosts of friends while officiating behind the ice cream counter.

Roscoe, though short in statue, has proved tall in theatricals. He reached the heights of an artist behind the footlights in school dramas and was a dependable actor in any role for which he was cast.

The past summer, Roscoe was bell hop at Poland Spring and has a place with Hiram Ricker next summer if he desires. This winter he is basking in sunshine at Pinehurst, N. C. Hopping bells will keep him busy at Holly Inn, until the robins return and a hankering for sunny Maine calls him back home.

BOWLING

Oxford 1415; Norway 1392

Oxford again plucked Norway at Parrin's Alley's, Friday evening to the tune of 23 pins. As a rule the marks were captured by each team with several totals above the average. Boynton of Norway rolled the highest three string total at 304, "Rusty" Herrick worked up on second at 294 with Heslop the highest for the visitors with 292. Herrick landed in first position with the highest box and Baxter of Oxford followed with 116, the top-notcher for his contingent.

Norway smashed the jinx Monday evening and won a three string match with Oxford at Parrin's Alley. Oxford had the game packed away as usual until the last string when Norway turned on the gas for gains while Oxford skidded and lost out.

Lawrence Decoteau of Norway led the field with 305 total. His nearest neighbor was Smith of Oxford at 283. Boynton bowled for 109 in a single with Smith one pin behind.

Single Men 2303; Married Men 2276

Two Norway teams fought out an old question at the alley Tuesday evening, and settled the argument with a five string match. The single chaps tapped the poor martyrs with 27 pins to the good.

Unfortunately the married outfit started wrong in the first string and registered a bad slump. Winning the next pair helped some, and a tremendous boost in the fifth round, hurled a scare into the ranks of the unattached colts. This burst of speed came late without the punch to shut out single bliss.

Fifty Years Faithful Service

Howard D. Smith, who has been connected with the Norway National Bank for a little more than half a century, tendered his resignation as president of the bank and is was accepted by the directors.

This was made the occasion of a get-together and talk-it-over at the Beals Tavern last Monday evening as a slight testimonial of the appreciation of the retiring president.

Appropriate remarks were made by W. L. Gray as toast master, also one of the bank directors. Col. Albert J. Stearns spoke for the professional and business men, Geo L. Curtis for the Norway Savings Bank. Cashier Irving O. Barrows represented the Paris Trust Co. as Perley F. Ripley, the president was unable to be present. His remarks were appropriate for the occasion.

The real speech of the evening was made by the retiring president in his review of the changes of banking and business of the past fifty years. He spoke of one active personal account that has been on the books since the organization, that of W. W. Watson of South Waterford, he was expected to have been present but the threatened storm prevented his coming. Mr. Watson is in his 85th year Those present were as follows:—H. D. Smith, F. W. Sanborn, Bial F. Bradbury, Stephen B. Cummings, Stephen O. Jellerson, Geo. L. Curtis, H. F. Andrews, Wm. F. Jones, James N. Favor, H. B. Foster, G. H. Cullinan, H. Walter Brown, E. S. Cummings, Richard Perkins, Percy Y. Fogg, Fred E. Smith, I. O. Barrows, S. W. Goodwin, Albert J. Stearns and Walter L. Gray.

NO DULL TIMES AT NOVELTY CO.

The Novelty Turning Co. is in the midst of prosperity and changing over things at the factory to meet the rush.

Partitions have been removed for a number of new automatic lathes which complete a battery of machines along one side of the mill. Part of the storehouse has been converted into a large dye room, even Brown's pet garage in one end of the storage building is being piped for a steam drying kiln. "Buyof" states that next spring an addition will be put on one end of the mill for everything is cramped, and storage without congestion is needed.

Two items from the files will show the trend of affairs. One order calls for twenty million pieces now in the process of manufacture, and for eighteen million pieces being produced at another mill under Brown's supervision. It is understood the automatics are booked solid for one year and no new orders will be handled under twelve months delivery. On top of this the hand lathes are assured of three months work with present orders.

NORWAY GRANGE

Norway and South Paris Granges met, Saturday, for a joint installation of officers.

The forenoon was devoted to business. At noon dinner was served. The ladies of Norway worked in the kitchen while the ladies of Paris took charge of the dining room.

After dinner the meeting was called to order by Worthy Master E. H. Brown. Harold Pike of Waterford, County Deputy, installed the newly elected officers of both Granges. He was assisted by Mrs. Pike and Norton Jillson. The work was done in a very impressive manner.

Remarks were made by the retiring masters of both Granges. A short program was enjoyed by all.

There will be a picnic dinner at the next meeting, January 24.

Fred Durgin has finished two rooms in his garage for winter business and can overhaul cars in comfort. He planned to close shop before December but retracted.

Club Activities

Veranda Club

The Veranda Club met with Mrs. Virgalyn Murdock, Thursday evening, Jan. 8, for regular order of business. All officers were present. The Christmas reports were read and accepted. All sick members were reported as better. After the business meeting the hostess served a nice lunch.

Next meeting is with Mrs. Addie Olmstead, 97 Main St., Jan. 22, at 7.30 P. M.

Social Night of Browning Club

Mrs. Gertrude Hosmer was the hostess at the annual social meeting of the Browning Reading Club at her home, Monday evening.

The entertainment was arranged and conducted by the program committee, Mrs. Hosmer, Mrs. Thirza Lovejoy and Mrs. Elizabeth Bartlett, who provided a delightful evening. Supper was served to a party of twenty-five members at 7 o'clock, after which paper and pins were distributed for a hat making contest. Answering questions regarding the arrangement of the bars and stars on the American flag perplexed many, and a contest in which scrambled letters must be re-arranged to spell the name of our president caused hard thinking. Several games were played to complete an evening of rare enjoyment.

BOARD OF TRADE

The Norway Board of Trade enjoyed an excellent supper at Concert Hall, on Wednesday evening, including chicken pie, mashed potato, squash, salad, hot rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake. The supper was served by the ladies of the Universalist Church.

At the business meeting following, the officers for 1925 were elected as follows:

Pres.—Stuart W. Goodwin.
1st Vice Pres.—Fred S. Brown.
2nd Vice Pres.—Eliot A. Fuller.
Treas.—Walter Noyes.
Sec.—Edwin Dunn.
Executive Com.—Fred E. Smith, Edwin S. Cummings, George L. Curtis, Leon M. Longley, Norman U. Greenlaw.

The various other committees will be appointed by the president at an early date.

Records of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, Ralph C. Andrews; the treasurer, Charles L. Bartlett, also gave his report for the year.

The principle discussion of the evening was along the lines of advertising Norway and vicinity. L. Fred Pike and Fred S. Brown of the advertising committee presented a variety of advertising schemes—several styles of folders, postal cards and picture stickers for letters. It was voted to put out a small 4 page folder suitable for sending in ordinary envelopes, as soon as the pictures could be taken in the spring, and the finance committee will have charge of raising the necessary funds.

A redistribution of the letter heads and envelopes advertising the town, now on hand, are to be redistributed.

PINE BLISTER PICTURES

Dan Curtis recently entertained and instructed an audience of twenty or more Wearies in the mysteries of "the pine blister rust." He has been on the job six years and has been instrumental in cleaning out the current and gooseberry bushes in many towns in this county. The rust vibrates from bush to pine and back again until it kills the pine. Many slides were shown of the destructive working of the blister, also of reforestring with pine.

Mr. Eastman of Fryeburg raises seedling pines almost by the million. Pictures were shown of them. The young pines sell for $12.00 per thousand.

Plant pines on waste land and destroy the current family is the slogan.

The pictures and accompanying talk were interesting and instructive. It shows what the State, Town and Federal Government is doing to combat the pine blister rust and save the pine forests for the future.

TAKING A NEW START

Charges and countercharges are being made.

They relate to the slogan, Trade at Home.

Some pretty plain things have been said to the effect that even some of our business men don't trade at home.

Well, let's forget the past—and in the future everybody decide to do more trading at home.

Let's all be more careful about going out of town for merchandise.

Let us trade in home stores.

Let's all ask for homemade goods.

Let's give work to home mechanics.

Let's all be consistent.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDED

A Ford truck and a Nash car came together on the State road on Thompson Hill some two miles south of Norway village, Sunday afternoon. Four passengers in the truck were more or less injured, one received a broken wrist. The occupant of the Nash escaped unhurt.

The truck, proceeding toward Norway, contained M. B. Wardwell of Auburn with his wife and son and daughter. Aiden Maxim of South Paris was alone in the Nash and traveling toward Oxford. Both care were in ruts and apparently not able to climb out. Wardwell stopped and Maxim's car plunged into the truck, causing much damage to the radiator and windshield. Maxim's car was also put out of commission and towed in. The Wardwell boy sustained a broken wrist and others in the car received cuts or minor injuries.

Miss Emilie Davis went to Bethel, Wednesday, for a two weeks' visit with friends.

A large group of young people attended the basket ball game and I. O. O. F. dance at South Paris, Tuesday evening.

Traverse jurors drawn for the February term of Supreme Court at South Paris are Frank H. Beck, Frederick S. Frost and Stephen B. Cummings.

Josiah T. Rowe, barber, says:—"I've been in the business a hundred years or so, did expect or at least wanted to sell out but haven't done so. Have had some people talk about buying. Maybe it's just as well. I'm busy as I want to be even tho the "shops are down." He has continued in the same business more years than any other person in the village.

CLERKS' BALL COMING

The comittees are in action to bring into form the 31st Annual Clerk's Ball at Norway—Opera House, Feb. 10.

The Philharmonic orchestra of Biddeford will furnish music of a high order and prove satisfactory as last year.

Wilbur Downing will be floor manager assisted by Maford Mann, Geo. Gurney, Philip Bradeen, Alton Bradford, Alton E. Luck, Leo V. Walton, Edward L. Burnell. Honorary Aids are Lester V. Ashton, Norman Greenlaw, Ralph C. Andrews, Fred E. Smith, Stuart W. Goodwin, Clarence MacDonald, South Paris; Evander Whitman, Bethel; Arthur Walker, Oxford.

L. H. Davis has returned from employment at Shagg Pond.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Blake left Tuesday night for St. Petersburg, Fla., remaining over night in Portland with Mr. and Mrs. Lyman B. Chipman and Mrs. Amos L. Millett.

The Norway Maine Club of Boston has received an invitation from the Massachusetts Maine Daughters to attend the ball given by that society at Copley Plaza Hotel, Saturday evening, Jan. 24. There are several Norway ladies living in and near Boston that belong to this society, and Norway will be well represented.

Dr. Middleton of Portland was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Fuller over Sunday.

Prof. Frank D. Tubbs of Bates College delivered a lecture on Eclipses at the high school, Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the senior class. The general phenomena was explained, and the solar eclipse due Jan. 24, visible in this part of the county was emphasized.

South Paris Locals

Gardiner 20; P. H. S. 15

Paris High School quintet opened the basket ball schedule at the gym, Friday, with the fast Gardiner High School outfit, coached by Frank "Cyk" McGinley, the opposing team.

The home boys kept after the visitors during the first half with speed that surprised local fans. Paris guards played snappy and prevented Gardiner from walking away with the pill. Before the end of the second period the visitors gained baskets and continued to keep the pace until the last whistle. Paris staged a come-back in the final period and nearly recovered the distance by alert passing and accuracy at the hoop. There was a large attendance. Score:

In the preliminary game, Paris High School girls defeated the Maine School of Commerce, the score being 44 to 20. Both teams played well, but the Commercials failed in defensive tactics and were not able to block passes nor smash good shooting.

A sociable followed the games with the boys' team of Norway High School as guests, having been invited to witness the contests.

Collegians 54; Town Team 12

Star athletes from Bates College submerged South Paris Town Team in a weird basket ball contest at the gym, Tuesday evening. The Towners played well, but were not able to hold the swift moving machine. Blocked at every point the locals held on with terrible grip and watched the meteoric shower of baskets fall against them. Apparently the Collegians held a mortgage on the pill and cuffed the sphere around as suited their pleasure.

Paris proved willing workers but were unable to keep the ball in their opponents territory. Bill Ledger, Peterson and C. Small were principal basket weavers for the visitors while Fuller, MacDonald and Hanlon split even for the Towners.

Tuesday, Jan. 20, the Sabattus K. of P. will be the attraction.

There's a little rest or peace for the backache sufferer.

Urinary troubles, headaches, dizziness and nervousness, all tend to prevent rest or sleep.

Why continue to be so miserable?

Mrs. G. D. Frost, 6 Tucker St., says: "My back gave me trouble and there seemed to be a deep seated pain across the center of it. My kidneys didn't act regularly and in other ways showed signs of disorder. As Doan's Pills had been used in the family with good results, I decided to try them. One box rid me of the trouble."

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Cross-Word Items

Dear Editor: Enclosed you will find my version of the Cross-Word Puzzle No. 4. Drat the thing, anyway. I've puzzled on it all I'm going to! For the life of me I cannot make horizontal 42 into anything but "Toive"—that may be a synonym for "Ingenuous" but I give up if it is. Still, I've thrashed all the other words, horizontal and vertical, to see if I could possibly squeeze out an intelligible word other than "Toive." I'm not an expert on these "cuss-word" puzzles by any means, so in the meantime I'll be waiting patiently for the solution of this brain tickler.

I enjoy the Cross-Words you have printed in the Advertiser, and hope you will continue them.

A Dream

By Frederick Marshall Davis
Written for Norway Advertiser

I stopped to talk the other day
With an old chum of mine,
He spoke of days of long ago,
In days of Auld Lang Syne.

He spoke about a farm house
And an elm tree's quiet shade
He spoke about a mother
Who watched us while we played:

And all about the orchard trees
And sheaves of golden grain,
He spoke about the honey bees
And flowers down the lane.

He talked about the meadow
Where ripest berries grew,
He spoke of fields of clover
That sparkled in the dew.

He spoke about an alder pole
And a bent-up pin,
He spoke about a swimming hole
Where we both dove in.

He spoke about a schoolhouse
With its never ending charm
And told about a dinner pail
We carried on our arm.

He spoke about a grassy mound
And a weeping willow tree,
Where night-birds twitter just at eve,
Their songs of melody.

And I heard his voice that trembled
When he started in to tell
Of the gingham dress and apron
Of the one he loved so well.

"Come, John," I said, "now listen here,
I'm sure we must not weep."
And bending low I saw a tear
Was trickling down his cheek.

And we hurried out to meet them,
Those old schoolmates, on that day,
The rose had faded from their cheek
Their hair was turning gray.

Love's young dream had led us blindly,
Love's old story once more told,
After all, fate dealt us kindly,
Like ourselves, they've growing old.

'Twas to us another chapter
In life's book now past and gone,
The years are like a running brook,
They hurry on and on.

"We must not let the years, John
Make our hearts feel sad,
We must feel gay and laugh and say,
"It was a dream we had."

The greatest fire-fighter of them all—for your roof

FIRE-FIGHTING men will tell you that their greatest ally is not so much a device to put fires out but rather a material that prevents fire. Such is Johns-Manville Asbestos Roofing—either in shingle or roll form.

It is not on'y fire-safe, but it is beautiful, weather-tight and permanent! Yet with all these fine roofing qualities, it is surprisingly low in cost—hardly more than ordinary rag-felt roofing.

STARTING A POULTRY FARM

"The way I started my poultry raising," writes a boy, "was one day in March about four years ago a man gave me a chicken that had the shell on its back. The man that gave me the chicken thought it would die. I brought it home and put it in a box and it grew up and was a pullet. Then I set her on some Plymouth Rock eggs. The eggs hatched, and then I had 12 chickens. Then I kept adding to the lot until now I have 50 hens. One day in June we had our first club meeting. That day we elected officers. The next week or so I set some hens, they would keep coming off the nest; then I would have to drive them on again and again. In three weeks the eggs hatched. One hen hatched every chicken out of 15 eggs. That made 105 that I had in all."

MAINE, BIG ENOUGH FOR ALL

What shall Maine become, a Summer resort, manufacturing state or agricultural community? In nearly all the articles written on this subject the idea has been carried that Maine must be developed along one line or another, that if manufacturing increased the state would be ruined as a summer resort, therefore that we should decide now what course we should follow. Are we not making a mistake by attempting to do this? Why not agree to develop all the resources of Maine and make the most of our possibilities in every direction whether it be farming, manufacturing, summer boarders or feldspar mining. Is not Maine big enough for all?

Massachusetts, small in area, has become one of the great manufacturing states, yet within its borders are many charming summer resorts and there is quite a movement to increase the summer business. Down on the coast we have Camden with many thriving industries and fast becoming one of the most noted resorts in Maine.

Every town has possibilities for development along one line or another and it should be up to each town and city to discover its own resources and develop them. Maine is a good state to live in, not only in July and August but the whole year. Let us boom Maine, talk Maine, believe in Maine, beat out California at their own game. If California has the golden gate we have American's sunrise gateway at Portland, destined to become a great city. We have the most wonderful state in the East and it is up to us to make the most of it.

Mrs. Nora Dresser who is spending the winter with Mrs. Leslie McIntire, made a visit to her brother, Wm. Fish's family, Wednesday. She came with Mrs. Clayton McIntire, who visited her father, Charles Stone, and brother, Ernest.

Ernest Stone has been very ill for a long time, having had the mumps in the fall, and he is now sufferings with a kidney trouble. He has just got able to go to the kitchen, recently.

Mrs. Evelyn Morey, who is a remarkably smart woman for her age, does all kinds of fancy work. The beautiful quilts she has made are legion. Also beautiful hand embroidered sofa pillows and other things too numerous to mention. She will be eighty in March. She has been to the hospital in Portland twice this winter. Mrs. Ives took her to Portland in the fall for the removal of a cancer. Afterwards she went to have her foot treated. When she returned from Portland her children and grandchildren had a surprise party for her, a large number being assembled. A fine supper was in readiness for her, which she enjoyed very much. She quite often attends the Grange suppers and Circle entertainments with her son, Chas., who is very kind and thoughtful of his aged mother. The old adage is true in her case, "Bring up a child in the way he should go and when he is older, he will not depart from it."

GARTERS

The world tide is turning in the garter industry. The United States has passed from an importer to an exporter of garters. In 1923 there were no imports, and exports of garters and arm bands numbered 5,768,213 pieces valued at $702,263.

This industry is one of the many branches of the billion-dollar textile industry which has passed unnoticed, points out the National Foreign Trade Council. However, but for imports of rubber from Malaysia and silk from Japan, Italy and China, this industry could not function.

The garter is a late comer in dress. When worn by men at the knees of their short trousers, until a brief century ago, the garter was a most elaborate and conspicuous article of personal adornment.

There was no need for the garter before the Midle Ages, because until that period stockings were not worn. Partly because of the warm climates, the Grecks, Romans and Egyptians wore sandals, or shoes without stockings or socks. Roman ladies and dandies sometimes used bands of cloth to protect the feet, but never stockings.

The modern machine-made garter appears a complicated affair. Yet the old garter was a much showier article of men's dress. When the covering of the legs of man began to be divided at the middle, above the knee, instead of reaching as a single piece of cloth from the ankles to the hips in the form of pants, something was needed to hold up the new fangled stocking, rolled above the knee.

First a simple band of cloth tightly tied, it became the fashion to wear garters made of bands of gold cloth, held by elaborate rosettes of ribbons of brilliant colors to match the colors in the stockings, and by buckles set with diamonds. The celebrated English Order of the Garter was founded in 1348, growing out of the wearing of an elaborate garter by the king.

American ingenuity has been called on in modern times to satisfy man's need for a new kind of garter. With the passing of short pants and the stocking the sock came into vogue, and needed to be held in a different way. The sock was originally an unheeled slipper of leather, for house wear, not unlike the Indian moccasin. In the Middle Ages, from this it passed to a piece of leather at the bottom of the stocking, and finally it supplanted the stocking entirely.

The leather leggings worn by frontiersmen, and the colonial troops of the British and French forces stationed in America, were a military substitute for the stocking. These leggings, as an article of wear, have all passed from use. In 1904 there were made in the United States 122,462 dozen pairs, and in 1919 but 4,635 pairs. The manufacture of garters is keeping pace with that of stockings, which is now the most important branch of the knitwear industry in the United States.

Whereas: The Heavenly Father has again entered our midst and taken from our fraternal order our beloved sister, Lois Stanton, therefore be it

Resolved: That in the death of Sister Lois Stanton, Julian Rebekah Lodge has lost an esteemed member, one who has striven to live faithfully by the principles of our Order.

Resolved: That our heartfelt sympathy be extended to the friends in their affliction.

As we see our love decay;
And the hopes so fondly cherished,
Brighten but to pass away.
One by one our hopes grow brighter,
As we near the shining shore,
For we know across the river
Wait the loved ones gone before."

Resolved: That our Charter be draped in mourning for thirty days, that these Resolutions be spread upon our records and a copy be sent to the Norway Advertiser for publication.

Western Maine Poultry Show

Fourteenth Annual Exhibition

The fourteenth annual exhibition of Western Maine Poultry Association was held at Association Hall, South Paris, Jan. 13, 14, 15, with nearly 300 birds entered. Officers for the past year were:

Pres.—C. Guy Buck, South Paris.
Vice Pres.—H. E. Lovejoy, Norway.

TOWN VICE PRESIDENTS

Harold Haskell, South Paris.
Dr. P. A. Wight, Bolster's Mills.
A. Van Den Kerckhoven, Bethel.
H. M. Tucker, Yarmouthville.
Charles D. Morse, Waterford.
Chas. Y. Francis, Oxford.
B. A. Carpenter, East Poland.
Guy W. Coffin, Mechanic Falls.
John E. Brock, West Paris.
Frank Beck, Norway.
Secretary—E. P. Crockett, South Paris.
Treasurer—George W. Haskell, South Paris.

DIRECTORS

H. E. Lovejoy, Norway.
E. P. Crockett, South Paris.
Edward L. Parris, Paris.
Geo. W. Haskell, South Paris.
Freeland Witham, South Paris.
C. Guy Buck, South Paris.
D. H. Bean, South Paris.
F. S. Clark, South Paris.
F. A. Taylor, South Paris.

A large number of wire coops replaced many of the wooden type and added greatly to the attractiveness of the show. Harry E. Lovejoy of Norway was superintendent of the hall and grouped the exhibits so even the laymen might know something about the different breeds and classes. W. H. Whipple of Portland used the comparsion method in judging.

While there were a number of exhibitors, it was left with Ernest P. Crockett of South Paris, F. E. Field of Auburn, and the Coffin Red Farm at Mechanic Falls to offer the largest number of birds in several displays C. Guy Buck of South Paris featured R. I. Reds and other breeds, offering a good sized collection. G. M. Hebbard of Bangor displayed fine specimens of white leghorns and white wyandottes without competition. Crockett C. Record of South Paris was a prominent exhibitor with a utility pen of Plymouth Rocks, and S. C. R. I. Reds in singles.

The utility classes should have been more largely represented, but there appeared to be an increase over past shows. In this locality birds of this type should be among the leaders for there are many good pens worthy a place in any show.

Henry Plummer of South Paris made good with Black Giants and offered several fine looking specimens. F. E. Field was the only exhibitor with ducks. Heretofore Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Benson of Oxford have occupied considerable space and carried away a bunch of prizes.

Among the demonstrators were I. F. Blasdell of Auburn with many samples of Grandin's Red Flag Feeds, and Ralph A. Butts of South Paris showing incubators, brooders and electric pump with pressure tank and many accessories for poultry men.

OXFORD

Celebrates Ninety-Fourth Birthday

The oldest citizen in Oxford at the present time is Mrs. Eunice Caldwell. She has just passed her 94th birthday. Friday, Jan. 9. She was born in Otisfield Jan. 9, 1831. Much of her early childhood was spent in that town. She has been a resident of Oxford for nearly 50 years. Her husband once conducted a livery business in this town and she has always been greatly interested in horses and was successful in driving and training horses.

She had a severe illness this last fall leaving her eyesight and hearing very bad but she has a very clear mind, discusses topics of the day and is interested in daily events, especially the town news. She has one daughter, Mrs. Hattie Farnham, who cares for her.

A post card shower will be given Mrs. Chas. Hanscom, Friday, Jan. 16, in honor of her birthday. It will be given by members of the Lendahand Club, Ladies' Aid and W. R. C. of which she is a member.

Mrs. Annie Elden

Mrs. Annie Houghton, wife of John Elden, passed away at her home in Oxford. Tuesday morning Jan. 13, after an illness of about ten days.

She was born at Welchville, June 5. 1851, was the daughter of Aaron and Betsy (Farris) Houghton. She was married May 1, 1901 to John Elden of Mrs. Houghton was well known in this town being an active helper in the T. A. Roberts W. R. C., the Ladies Aid of the the Congregational church. She is survived by her husband John Elden, one brother, Orin Houghton of Auburn, and nieces, Kate Starbird of Oxford, Mrs. Robert Stuart of Brunswick, Mrs. Leslie Ames, of Bridgton; one nephew, Arthur Houghton of Poland Spring. Funeral services were at the Congregational church, Thursday, Jan. 15, at 1.30 P. M. Interment at Riverside cemetery.

The pupils of Oxford High School directed by Prin. Raymond Saunders, were very busy, Saturday, preparing for wintersports. A fine ski jump was made in the Hayes field and a portion of the outlet of Lake Thompson was scraped for skating.

Fishermen are enjoying the ice fishing on Lake Thompson. More than a dozen small fish houses can be seen from the outlet; surely Lake Thompson has charms in winter as well as summer.

IRISH CITY'S LONG HISTORY

Limerick Has for Many Centuries Been a Place of High Importance and Interest.

Limerick, Ireland, which occupies both sides of the river as well as King's island, is about 130 miles from Dublin. Its bacon-curing industry, its creameries, its condensed milk factories, and its salmon fisheries keep busy its Rory O'Mores and its pretty little Irish colleens, the glances of whose beautiful eyes are like to prove as fatal as those of Kate Kearney. Limerick fish hooks are celebrated, and though the Limerick lace worked upon a fine quality of net derived its name from the city, it is mostly made in other portions of the island at the present time.

Limerick has had a past, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. It was the ancient Regia of Ptolemy; the Danes desired it for a long while before they finally occupied it in the Ninth century; and in 1210 King John visited it and built forts upon its coveted soil. The dethroned James II of England made it his last stronghold. On the island in the river the ancient Limerick had its beginnings, and today its maze of crooked streets, and its old cathedral, dating from 1170, are important points of interest.

Important question for today: Should the man who snores be permitted to sleep?

A FLAPPER TALE

By FANNY RICHARDSON

(©, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Flop was so tired that she didn't care much what happened, which meant that nothing would happen, because one usually has to hop around a bit to keep the old world stirring. So she found a quiet corner sheltered behind a large palm leaf plant and through the chinks watched the dancers.

Dreamily she pictured herself sliding about on the floor, a vivacious little flapper with flaunting skirts and fly-a-way beaus hovering about her. "The life of the party" she had always been called. She sighed and unconsciously murmured out loud: "It's a great life if you don't weaken."

"It sure is."

Flop turned her bobbed head in astonishment. It was evident that she was not alone behind the palm leaf plant. A young man, a tow-headed person she had never seen before, was sitting beside her, looking absently at the dancers.

She kept getting sleepier until, finally, she thought she was resting on a soft cloud.

The last of the dancers were leaving. Flop opened her sleepy eyes to find herself propped up in a rather cozy manner against the tow-headed boy. Flop managed a rather stupid "What"—and gazed at him, open mouthed. He turned and said in a matter-of-fact tone, "Shall we go, now?"

Flop's head was still soaring in pink clouds. She managed a "Yes." Then she stammered: "But Jim was going to take me home. He brought me. I hid . . . you see, I was so tired of it all."

"That's all right," said the young man. "I guess Jim has gone. There are only two couples left. He probably looked for you, but we are pretty well screened in here."

He disappeared to get her wraps. Flop sighed.

Almost immediately the young man returned with her wraps and they were soon briskly walking on the street. Flop said not a word for two blocks. Then suddenly she murmured: "It's rather late, isn't it?"

"Rather," said her companion.

Another block . . . silence.

"Don't you think this is rather improper?" she queried softly.

"Rather," was the answer.

Two blocks . . . silence.

"That is my house. The one with the slanting roof and the high fence."

"May I see you again?"

"Yes . . . but why?"

"I know . . . but . . . you're so different from the other girls . . . them flappers . . . so quiet and softlike . . . the others are too noisy . . . always on the go . . . never tired . . ."

At this juncture Flop's sleepiness disappeared.

As soon as she had climbed into her soft bed she knew the reason why. What had he said? He liked 'em tired and softlike . . . the others were too noisy . . . funny . . . and she had said Friday night. What would she do? He would find out Friday that she was noisy, always on the go, too. She buried her face in the pillows and sobbed.

It was seven o'clock Friday night. Flop was putting the finishing touches to her hair in front of her bedroom mirror. "Darn!" she said to the reflection "I can't help it. I've tried everything. Walked almost all day in hob-nailed shoes on rough roads . . . spoiled my nails working in the garden all week . . . but I don't feel the least bit tired . . . I feel just as peppy as any flapper in the town, and he said he liked them soft and tiredlike. Ding!"

Suddenly she had an idea. Her eyes fell on a pair of small, pretty pumps lying under the bed. She would put them on because they made her feet pinch and her head ache.

At eight o'clock a rosy young lady answered the tinkle of the door bell. She was sorry she was tired, she explained to the young man on the doorstep. She had walked a long way that afternoon and her feet were sore and she had cut her finger on the bread-knife.

They went into the parlor and for an hour sat soberly talking. Of course she couldn't play with the sore finger, and dancing was out of the question. Finally she could stand it no longer. Murmuring an apology, she rushed out of the room with amazing swiftness for one with sore feet.

Two hours later, they were still dancing to the tune of the victrola. She had not been able to remove the bread cut . . . it was a natural occurrence, but she had changed her shoes. They seemed to laugh constantly together . . . and noisily.

"Say," he said suddenly, "do you mind if I tell you, but I thought you acted rather queer the first part of the evening . . . you were tired, weren't you?"

"Yes, rather."

He looked at her admiringly. "Say," he blurted out, "do you know what a peach you are? I like 'em noisy with lots of pep. And speaking of flappers, you're the nicest little flapper I know." Flop pulled his nose and laughed. Inwardly she said, "Aren't men peculiar?"

Important.

"I think you should have told me about your divorce before you married me."

"Why, she is out of my life, dearie."

"Maybe so, but her allimony isn't."

As It Were.

"And you and your wife get into arguments, of course, about things?"

"Well, I can't say we argue, but she does a red-hot monologue."

A Man of Means.

"Is this Mr. Gibson you have become engaged to a man of means?"

"Yes, mother; he means all he says, and that's the sort of husband I want."

A Middle-Aged Guy.

"Uncle Tobe, you never yell for the good old days."

"No, I never began having any real fun until I was forty years old."

While the tables were being cleared away for dancing, the party enjoyed cards and other games in the lodge room while pool entertained many in the pool room.

Articles Being Printed Each Week, Look Them Over

We are running in the Advertiser a series of articles entitled "Oxford County in 1812," written by Charles E. Waterman of Mechanic Falls. There were 26 companies sent out from Oxford County for the defense of Portland, to say nothing of the drafted companies which afterward served as a more permanent garrison.

There will be about a dozen articles. This week article No. 3 is issued.

The companies presented in the next issue will be from the towns of Hebron and Oxford.

These articles give the names of the parties in the different companies and are of interest to the descendents, many of whom can be found in Oxford County. Look them over, you may find names of interest.

Mrs. Elmer Ford and Mr. Alvin Bessey are under the care of a physician.

Does an investment that will yield 6 per cent. per annum, compounded semi-annually and secured by first mortgage on improved real estate, appeal to you?

WELL ONE DAY IN BED THREE

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan. — "After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

Norway and Vicinity

Unless the open date on Jan. 23 is played here, the boys' basket ball team at the high school will not appear again on the Norway surface until Feb. 13 when Hallowell will be the opposing team.

It is the experience of one local radio agency that as a rule the highest priced receiving sets are being installed in the rural homes, generally cash on delivery. In the village low priced sets are in demand, many going out on deferred payment.

An item of local interest is in regard to the legal fight in the Pennsylvania Supreme court by Mrs. S. M. Keammerling, daughter of the late Dr. Albert Thompson, and well known in Norway. More than 10 000 acres of coal land was involved in a tax assessment considered excessive, because the assessment based on $600,000 valuation, is according to the defendent, twice the amount she paid at public sale. The action of the court will re-open the case.

Miss Frances Moore and Miss Mary Jones sailed, Monday, for Bemuda, where they will be employed during the winter at the Bermudian Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Edwards and Miss Della Holt have gone to Ormand Beach, Florida, for the winter, having employment at the Ormand Hotel.

Raymond Currier, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Currier, was operated on at D. Abbott's hospital in Portland and it is expected in time he will be able to walk, which he has never done. He will remain at the hospital nearly a year in all probability. The little fellow has suffered with spasmodic paralysis.

Mrs. Grace Sthen of Portland department secretary of the American Legion Auxiliary, returned with Mrs. Hazel E. Conary, from Portland, and was her guest, Wednesday night and Thursday. Mrs. Conary installed the officers at the South Paris Auxiliary on that evening.

The photo play, "North of 36," at Rex Theatre, Thursday evening, with Shaw's orchestra for music, attracted a capacity house. Many accepted standing room, others unable to secure seats journeyed homeward. Stoneham, Waterford and other surrounding towns were represented by individuals and parties.

The volley ball contest between teams from the Methodiest and Congregational churches will be staged at the high school gym this Thursday evening at 8.30. Both teams will have strong side line support for the gym will be open to the public and a lively evening is expected.

Fifteen and more tables were at play during the American Legion Auxiliary card party in Norway Grange hall, Thursday evening. Old timers enjoyed the card games of their day, while the set familiar with bridge or other combinations were equally happy.

Miss Ruby Barker and Miss Eva Harlow of Lewiston were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Stinefond.

O. P. Stinefond has a new Ford delivery truck.

Fred Lovejoy returned this week to his employment at C. B. Cummings & Sons Co. after an enforced vacation.

Mrs. Farwell was the daughter of the late Joseph and Laura Frost Kendall and her childhood home was in Albany. Her niece, Mrs. Linda Wentworth, has been with her for several months, and her nephew, Frank Kendall, has lived in part of her house for several years, he and his wife have had a watchful eye for her welfare.

Burial was at Middle Intervale cemetery beside her husband, who passed away about five years ago. Her age was eighty-two years.

Cutting, hauling and packing ice has kept the farmers busy the past week.

Gardner Libby, with two men to help, has been cutting wood on John McAllister's lot, for a few days.

A card from Della Holt, mailed at Savannah, Ga., tells us that the boat on which she sailed had reached that city on the way to Ormand Beach, Florida. Miss Holt has felt very little seasickness and has not missed a meal so far on her ocean journey, which she has enjoyed to the limit.

David McAlister and crew broke out the drifts in the road from W. E. Canwell's to the Dresser schoolhouse, last Sunday afternoon.

Hazel McAllister called at Merritt Sawin's, last Sunday.

Ernest Brown has bought a very nice registered Guernsey bull of parties in Sumner.

Harold Canwell and Ivan Kimball are doing quite a business catching hedgehogs at night, which they deliver to Lin Flint, the porcupine man.

Mr. Thompson who drives the cream collector's truck, got out of gasoline and had to be hauled up the hill by David McAllister's. From there he slid down the hills until he got to the foot of the hill below Merritt Sawin's house which he was unable to make. He finally succeeded in obtaining a sufficient supply of gas by the kindness of Elmer Henley and made the hill and the rest of the way home to South Waterford all right.

The beautiful weather we have had for some days almost makes us forget the cold nipper we had some time ago. No doubt we will be reminded of it by another nip as soon as we shall want it. Some rain and a thaw would be welcomed by some whose wells are low, but not by the loggers just at present.

THE GIRL IN THE GREAT CITY

A stream of young women are all the time going up to the great cities to test out their talents in competition with the big world. If they stick closely to their work in a legitimate occupation and are careful about their associates, most of them will come through all right.

But that advice sounds fussy to some of these ambitious young souls, who wish to see life and think they know the world. There are many traps baited for just that kind of mouse, for young people who know a good deal, but not enough to cope with modern crooks who specialize on the frailties of women.

The working girl away from home in the big city needs friends. She can always get them. Churches, girls' clubs, social settlements, etc., offer pleasant relations, though their activities may seem slow to some of the moths who want to know how it feels to get their wings singed just a teeny bit. Unfortunately the singeing process does not usually stop after it has merely touched the wings.

THE REWARD OF WORK

The newspaper reporter who won the picture prize of $1,000 for the best newspaper story written in 1923 proved that hard work and sustained effort has its reward.

The reporter was Magner White and his story was written for the San Diego Sun about the eclipse of the sun. For thirty nights he poured over scientific books seeking all of the technical knowledge he could for the job that lay ahead.

An eclipse such as the one of last year takes place only every 120 years. He realized that it was his one big chance; that he would never have another one like it. So he prepared.

There is a lesson in this example for all of us. He demonstrated what everyone knows, but too little appreciates, that nothing worth while comes to us except through honest effort; and that to attain a goal, it is necessary to make preparation commensurate with the task.

A total eclipse of the sun is visible on the earth every 120 years, but our span of years here is much shorter than that.

When we set out upon life's work, little realizing what a comparatively short time we are to be here, how many of us decide what our aim in life shall be, and then set about as thoroughly to reach it as this newspaper reporter did in the accomplishment of his task?

Very few ever pay any attention to the experiences of those who have trod the same path—the technical knowledge required to make a success of life. Most of us plunge heedlessly and thoughtlessly into the great experiences, never knowing the pain, the sorrow and the heartache that it holds for us.

If those on the threshold would only tarry for a few minutes at the feet of experience and wisdom and learn what lies before them, how much more wonderful this world would be.

But youth seldom does and so often learns its lesson at great cost.

ONE OF THE SAFEST MEDICINES KNOWN

A family medicine, one kept in the house with children, should be harmless if an overdose is taken—but few of them are and household tragedies frequently result. One feature which makes for the long standing and constantly growing popularity of Ballard's Golden Oil is that while always effective, it contains no poisons or alcohol and if an overdose is taken, it does no harm, being pure medicinal oils and gums.

Ballard's Golden Oil owes much of its healing properties to absorption and is taken inside and rubbed on outside quickly reaching the "sick spot," the inflamed tissues. Just at this time of the year it is much in demand for coughs and colds. It is especially good for croup. Relieves rheumatism, sciatica and nothing better for a lame back. Mothers In These Flapper Days

Sent in:—"Since reading your item as to the domestic conditions of today, I often wonder where the old fashioned mother is. In these 'flapper days' it seems as if all that some mothers think of is to join clubs and social orders and work for and help orders when they are not financially able to regardless of whether their children need shoes or stockings.

"I know women in this town when they see their children coming to meet them, tell them to go home, they are 'a sight.' Whose fault is it these children ragged and dirty while mother is making a 'social success' and why is it in these days the mother who stays at home is called 'silly' by these new style mothers?—A Reader."

Shavey Noyes, a Naturalist
Of recognized renown,
Noted for his whistle
And ramblings round the town,
Erects along the sidewalk
Monuments of snow
Surmounted by a sprig of fir
Round which the doggies go
Early in the morning
They commence to gather round
From far and near they congregate
To Shavey's parking ground.
And there around these monuments
They spend the livelong day
In landscape picture painting gay.

OLD DITTY REVISED

And departing leaves behind us
Kind the rains don't wash away.
When our children pay the mortgage
Father's made to haul their loads,
They'll not have to ask the question.
"Here's the bonds, but where's the roads?"
